EDX Wireless Welcomes Steve Webster as Director of Product Management

Eugene, OR, November 5, 2009 – EDX Wireless, a recognized leader for RF planning tools, announced the appointment of Mr. Steve Webster as Director of Product Management. Mr. Webster will contribute his engineering expertise to continue EDX's commitment to developing the most flexible and reliable carrier-class planning tools available for modeling wireless networks.

“Steve's experience and background in the wireless industry and his unique skill sets will be key elements in EDX's ability to continue to develop tools that meet the needs of comprehensive network planning for emerging RF technologies. We are very pleased to have him guiding our development team,” says Ted Hicks, vice president of development and support.

Mr. Webster brings a wealth of experience to this new position at EDX. Having worked for wireless network operators, equipment vendors, and consulting firms in the wireless industry, he understands the perspective of EDX's extensive customer base. Mr. Webster has held engineering positions for AT&T, Sprint/Nextel, Juni, American Tower, Lucent Technologies, and LCC. Mr. Webster holds a BSEE from Clarkson University and an MSEE from Johns Hopkins University.
